

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XXIII.

STANFORD, KY., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1896.

NO. 98

HUSTONVILLE.

—Mrs. Emma Newburn is prepared to do all kinds of stamping on velvet, linen, satin, etc., in every style of pattern. Ladies would do well to give her a call.

—The latest visitor arrived at the home of Mrs. Logan Friday morning and was registered as J. B. Adams, Jr., all of which will be very welcome news to Beecher, Sr., at Longview, Ala., who will doubtless have to order a new suit of clothes to accommodate his increased size.

—Scott Thompson, who has been sick a long time, is now able to walk down town without an assistant. Mrs. J. B. Adams has just recovered from a severe attack of the grippe. Mrs. Kaufman is resting easy and no danger is apprehended from her injury received last week.

—Rev. J. W. Kirk, a widely known and highly respected minister of the Baptist church, died at his home on the Fork last Tuesday night and was buried Wednesday afternoon in our cemetery. He was a victim of the deadly typhoid pneumonia that has caused so many deaths on the Fork in the last few weeks. He was married twice, his last wife dying about a year ago and leaving four small children, who are now left bereft of both parents and helpers.

—Last week four Danville youths drove through here and into the place of a gentleman living between here and McKinney and by boisterous, drunken behavior succeeded in frightening the ladies of the household, where they called so much that they were afraid to answer their ring at the door bell. After a spectacular exhibition of drunken antics on the Hustonville and Stanford pike they again called at this house and being again denied admittance departed. If they thought that any young ladies in this community would receive them in the condition they were in, they were very much mistaken, and a repetition of such insulting folly will get them a notice in this column, with full names given, that will make their cheeks burn.

—Dr. Lawwill, of near Danville, was in town Thursday, the guest of Charles Wheeler. Mrs. Alex. Swinebroad, of Hubble, has returned home after a week's visit to her sister, Mrs. J. B. Adams. Mr. Swinebroad was here for a few days, returning with his wife. Miss Georgia Newburn has returned after a three weeks visit to her cousin, Miss Mattie White, at Hubble. Miss Bessie Worthington left Saturday for a protracted visit to Mayslick occasioned by the severe illness of her grandmother, Worthington. A. Curtis, of Lexington, is in the town in the interest of the Business College at Lexington. As soon as the weather opens so that our boys can play marbles they will have business enough at home. W. L. Johnson, of Houston, Texas, is here on a visit to his mother and brothers, who live on Frye's creek. He said that in digging a well on his place in Texas he discovered that the soil was 15 feet thick and the 15th foot was as rich as the first. A neighbor of his raised last year the best crop of cotton he had ever gotten, from land that had been cultivated in cotton for 40 years consecutively.

Col. T. P. Hill.—This sketch of one of Stanford's worthiest citizens appears in the Richmond Register, now edited by a Lincoln county man:

Col. Hill is a Palaski county product, but came to Stanford before the war, where he made a large fortune and achieved a reputation as one of the ablest criminal lawyers in the State. Years ago his easy, graceful style of oratory won for him the sobriquet "Demosthenes of Kentucky," which he proved himself clearly entitled to by the speech he made at Lebanon nominating Mike Sandley for the superior court judgeship. His friends have solicited him several times to make the race for Congress, but he has steadfastly refused, preferring the society of his friends, the companionship of his books and the quietude and enjoyment of his elegant home, to the unsatisfying honors of public office. A type of the old school orator—such as Dick Menefee and Josh Bell were—in the days when oratory counted for something, Col. Hill is today one of the grandest men in Central Kentucky.

IN MEMORIAM.—A loving mother, a dutiful wife, a good neighbor, a kind and sympathizing friend has joined the innumerable hosts beyond the mystic River of Death and "Aunt Ann" Gastineau is no more. She has gone to reap the glorious reward of a well spent life, and these lines are to assure her bereaved loved ones that the sympathy of all is enlisted in their behalf. When a mother is taken there is left an aching void that the world can never fill. May each of her children look to an all-wise and omnipotent God who alone can give comfort and consolation. J. F. W.

—A 50-foot granite shaft, the longest piece of granite ever, taken out of a quarry in Vermont, was quarried at Barre a few days.

—James Culver, aged 105, has just died at Martinsville, Ind. He was an inveterate chewer and smoker and frequently drank whisky to excess.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Mrs. Mary L. Anderson, a teacher of long experience, has secured a good school at West Point.

—Miss Dove B. Harris has closed a most successful school at Buena Vista in the lower part of the county.

—Mrs. E. L. Owsley entertained Mrs. J. M. Frazee and Mrs. Henry Clay Jennings one evening last week at her hospitable home on Danville street.

—The Union services were preached at the Christian church on Sunday evening by Rev. D. T. Broadus, of Bell Plains, Kansas, who is the guest of Mrs. R. A. Stone and other relatives.

—Little Miss Lettie May McRoberts, the winsome, fairy like little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McRoberts, celebrated the fourth anniversary of her birth by entertaining a number of her little friends at the home of her parents on Danville street.

—The hack running from here to Danville has again changed hands. Mr. Geo. Austin has recently purchased the hack from Mr. James I. Hamilton. Tom Underwood, who was one of the drivers for about a year, has taken charge of it and as he is polite and accommodating, we bespeak a good patronage for him.

—The effects of the sale of the late Mr. John Lawson brought moderately good prices. One saddle horse was sold for $20, two mares $125.50, others $30.50, one milk cow $25, three heifer calves $9.35 a piece, eight hogs at 4c, 24 sheep at $2.25 per head, one jack, half interest, $20, 1,000 bundle of oats $1.50 per hundred and 25 barrels of corn at $1.

—Ed Price bought a sow and pigs for $18 from John Campbell, of Madison; Wm. Baker bought a mule of James Hazen for $70; J. B. Parks bought one of Marion Rhodes for $60; W. A. Price bought from Tom Davis a sow and pigs for $20, and five calves from John Frank Pettus at $10 a piece and Johnson Price bought two calves from Wm. Royston at $13 a piece.

—Misses Francis and Park, of Paint Lick, are the guests of Mrs. Joe Robinson. Miss Alice B. Hudson is visiting Danville relatives this week. W. J. Kincaid is at home with his parents from a business trip. Miss Lucy Ballard, of Paint Lick, was a visitor of Miss Sallie Anderson last week. Rev. E. H. Burnham, of Luray, Va., was visiting D. M. Lackey and family last week. Miss Carrie Curry has returned from a visit to her sister, Mrs. F. D. Gaines, of Danville. —The success that has crowned the efforts of Elder Jesse Walden, a Christian church minister of this place, in the past few years is wonderful—not only in the many conversions of souls, but in the earnestness that he has put forth in trying to establish houses of worship in various portions of the State, where he has labored. In the past eight years he has been instrumental in having churches built in different localities that have amounted to $20,000. It certainly shows a wonderful increase in the moral and religious advancement of the people in our State. Mr. Walden's next meeting will be at Barbourville some time this month.

—Bryant & Benze's new drug store is not only one of beauty but of convenience as well. Lancaster is very well supplied in drug stores and they are all new buildings too, and the fixtures inside are of the best. To sum up the business capacity of Lancaster, we can say besides the three drug stores she has five groceries, seven dry goods houses, two hardware establishments, one confectionery, two handsome banks, two gentlemen's furnishing stores, two livery stables, two jewelers, three first-class millinery establishments, two hotels besides a number of private boarding houses, 11 experienced dress makers, and the various professions are full to overflowing now for this size place. We have eight lawyers or more, six physicians, four dentists, (and strange to say three are located on one street) four preachers, a number of good musicians, poets, artists, plenty of widows and widowers, bachelors and "bachelors-maids."

—The great Jennings estate awaiting the heirs in the bank of England's vaults is creating much interest among the American claimants. These descendants of one Wm. Jennings, of Acton Place, England, are "as thick as the leaves that strew the brooks of Vallambrosa," and not the least position of them are found in Garrard county. If this money could be obtained it would put our circulation on an immovable gold basis, and one of the direct claimants, your humble correspondent, could not only buy out the L. J. office, but all of Lincoln county.

LUCIE JENNINGS GRANT.

DANVILLE.—Unknown parties entered the home of Miss Lena Pope, on Lexington turnpike, Tuesday night, and stole her gold watch, which cost $150, and several dollars in cash.—Mrs. A. S. Robertson's class in elocution will hold a public declamatory contest in the Danville city school building Saturday evening, Feb. 22d. A cordial invitation is extended to all.—The Chasse des Fees met Wednesday afternoon and decided to give the next hop Monday night, February 24th.—Danville Advocate.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—A man and woman died while undergoing the excitement of a sanctification meeting at Tonkawa, Okla.

—Father Fitzgerald, a Catholic priest, was sentenced at Rochester, N. Y., to 10 years imprisonment for arson.

—The Baptists have 43 churches in Brooklyn, with 15,367 members and church property valued at $1,732,714, with seating capacity of 29,854.

—Whisky will not be used, says Secretary Herbert in response to the W. C. T. U.'s petition, to cherish the warship, Kentucky. Champagne will be used instead.

—Mrs. Beauchamp has recently returned to Lexington from a 12-days' trip to the mountains of Kentucky, where she organized 11 W. C. T. U.'s with 241 regular members and 192 honorary members.

—"Loving Kindness," or the 11th commandment, is the subject for discussion by the Young People's Society of the Baptist church next Sunday afternoon, at which time Miss Cora Jones will also read a selection and Miss Mamie DeBord will do likewise the Sunday following. Everybody cordially invited to be present and take part in the exercises.

—A protracted meeting began at the Methodist church, Somerset, Sunday, in which Rev. W. E. Arnold is assisted by Rev. H. C. Morrison, of Louisville. The Reporter says that great interest is being manifested abroad in the meeting as well as at home, and a number of visiting members from Stanford will lend their presence to the occasion and assist in the good work.

—A couple of so-called sanctification preachers held forth last week in Liberty and went through the usual monkey shins of their ilk. They made no converts there and the Tribune says that when they asked all who wanted to meet them in Heaven to show it by a shake of the hand, not one of the congregation responded, feeling doubtless that if Heaven was to be peopled by such angels as they that the other place would be preferable. We are glad that our Liberty friends showed so much good sense. The foolishness of hopping up every time a fool preacher makes a fool suggestion has gone far enough.

OF A LOCAL NATURE.

—John Worthly and Steve Center, both jail birds from Laurel, were captured at Ford.

—At Harrodsburg, Randall Litsey, who forged pedigrees and certificates of transfer of Jersey cattle was declared by a jury to be insane.

—Maj. Francis Marion Bourne, aged 71, died at Lawrenceburg of heart disease. He was proprietor of the Galt House at that place for 25 years.

—Pineville citizens want their public schools continued until July, and at a mass meeting over $600 of the necessary $1,000 was raised by subscription.

—John Ireland and C. E. Bass, engineers on the trains wrecked at Nicholasville of the charge of manslaughter.

—John B. Marshall, son of Elder and Mrs. C. K. Marshall, of Harrodsburg, who mysteriously disappeared sometime ago, has been heard from in Florida.

—The city council of Somerset will take the license from any saloon man caught selling liquor on Sunday for 30 days for the first offense and will finally revoke them for the second.

—The Somerset Paragon says the steamer Crescent ran on a snag near Mill Springs and sank. She was heavily loaded, having three cars of hogs, besides a large amount of other freight. The hogs were saved but most of the other freight was lost. A deck hand, Wylie Hines, was drowned while engaged in transferring the freight.

—At Wichita, Kan., disbarment proceedings against Assistant Attorney General Wm. P. Campbell for alleged misconduct in office are in progress in the district court there. A number of saloon men appeared against Campbell and testified that he had made overtures to them looking to the settlement of their cases out of court on the payment of various sums. Mr. Campbell was raised in Lincoln county and his friends here hope he will pull through all right.

—The general debate on the free-coinage substitute for the Bond bill closed yesterday. A vote is expected to-day. Mr. Dingley's motion of non-concurrence will pass by a large majority. Mr. Crisp's free-coinage resolution may muster as many as 100 votes, but not more.

Health and strength carry us through dangers and make us safe in the presence of peril. A perfectly strong man with rich, pure blood has nothing to fear from germs. He may breathe in the bacilli of consumption with impunity. If there is a weak spot where the germs may find an entrance to the tissues, then the trouble begins. Disease germs propagate with lightning-like rapidity. Once in the blood, the only way to get rid of them is to kill them. This is what Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is for. It purifies the blood. That means that it kills the germs, but that is only part of what it does. It assists digestion by stimulating the secretion of digestive fluids, so promoting assimilation and nutrition; purifies and enriches the blood and so supplies the tissues with the food they need. It builds up strong, healthy flesh and puts the whole body into a disease resisting state.

A Few Notes from the Southern End of Lincoln.

Mr. Lewis G. Gooch, of Waynesburg, one of the pioneers of that place, has done well during the 21 years he has been merchandising. In 1875 he opened a little store there with a capital of $100 and by hard work and close attention to business he has amassed a snug little fortune. He and his son, Cicero, are partners and they carry a stock estimated at $5,000, which includes almost everything from a darning needle to a second hand pulpit. The elder Mr. Gooch also owns over 1,000 acres of land, several dwellings in Waynesburg and some back stock.

R. D. Padgett, the other merchant at Waynesburg, moved his store recently to a room fronting the railroad and has also bought out his father's interest. Like his competitors, Messrs. Gooch & Son, he does a good business and if fortune continues to smile on him he will soon rival Mr. Gooch in wealth.

My good old friend, Clark Reynolds, is still a sufferer from rheumatism. For nearly two years he has been unable to get around and although he lives in the suburbs of Waynesburg, he has not been in town since the election, when he went to vote for P. Watt Hardin and the rest of the democratic ticket. There is no cleverer man or better democrat than Mr. Reynolds and in his sufferings he has the sympathy of his legion of friends all over the county.

A vast amount of lumber is being shipped from Waynesburg and Kingsville now and this alone brings in a good deal of revenue. Cross ties, staves, bridge timber and the like are shipped away by the train load by the merchants, who take such things in exchange for goods.

"I have been a reader of the Interior Journal for 20 years and 9 months," said Mr. Commodore G. Caldwell, "and I expect to continue a subscriber as long as I live." In further conversation Mr. C. said that he commenced taking this paper when the present editor took charge, 21 years ago, but after paying for it several years he decided to economize and ordered the paper stopped. He held off three months and when he went to town again the first thing he did was to have the I. J. sent to him again. Besides being a splendid paying subscriber, Mr. C. has proven his friendship by sending us several new subscribers.

There are five distilleries around Waynesburg and Kingsville and as a consequence "bug juice" is not hard to find. Some of the warmest prohibitionists in the county live in this section and these distilleries are no doubt thorns in their flesh.

Kingsville has the best hotel in the country and it is the drummers delight to go there. Mrs. B. C. Pennybacker, assisted by her two handsome daughters, Misses Agnes and Gertrude, has charge and nothing is left undone that will add to the pleasure of their guests. The table is first class and the rooms, which are as clean as a new pin, are splendidly furnished.

It would be hard to find two better general merchandise stores than McCarty, Baker & Co. and Carson & Walter, of Kingsville. They handle everything and the amount of goods they sell is astonishing. The first named firm is composed of Messrs. W. L. and J. M. McCarty and C. Granville Baker, and the latter of Joseph K. Carson, formerly of McKinney, and Mr. G. A. Walter, of this place.

Two drug stores for a town of Kingsville's size would look like the business is overdone, but it is not. Both F. M. Howe and Clifton & Thompson are doing well. The latter firm has been in existence less a month, but it has already built up a fair trade.

D. M. Creighton, whose house was destroyed by fire some months ago, has built a pretty cottage on the old site and moved into it. Mr. Creighton is away up in the sixties, but he did a good deal of the work himself.

The Interior Journal is glad to announce that it has secured the services of Mrs. J. M. McCarty, of Kingsville, as correspondent. Mr. W. L. McCarty will assist her in getting up news and our readers may expect a good letter at least once a week from her. We are also negotiating for a reporter at Waynesburg. Rev. M. A. Middleton is conducting a meeting at Kingsville. It has been in progress for a week and much good is being accomplished.

The sanctificationists meet every Wednesday night at Pleasant Point church and have experience meetings. They are largely attended and some weird scenes are said to be enacted.

Col. Thomas McFarland, of Knoxville, is with his sister, Mrs. Betty Pennybacker. Mr. James Roy has made additional improvements on his residence and now has one of the prettiest homes in the county. Mr. W. L. McCarty is back from Cincinnati, where he was laid up with the grip. E. C. W.

—David Miller, of Philadelphia, has gone crazy on politics. He is a republican and imagines that he is directing the machine of that party and that no appointment can be made without his sanction.

W. P. WALTON.

The most distorted imagination of a fiction writer never conceived anything more horribly unnatural than the crime brought to light by the finding of the headless body of a woman at Ft. Thomas, near Newport. For a time, it seemed that the untiring efforts of detectives and officers would go for naught, but they finally found a clue, so slight at first it seemed useless to work it, but they did and the result was the unearthing of a crime almost too revolting to publish and the arrest of the heartless fiends who committed it. The fact that all the participants belong to the higher walks of life, makes the matter the more startling. It begins with the old story of woman's trust and man's perfidy. Miss Pearl Bryan, the very beautiful, (if the picture are alike her) daughter of well-to-do Greencastle, Ind., parents, loved one Scott Jackson, whose home was in the same town, but who was attending a Cincinnati dental school, not wisely but too well and the result was that he accomplished her ruin. Matters were approaching a crisis, when Jackson suggested that she come to Cincinnati and undergo a criminal operation. Telling her parents that she was going to visit a relative in Indianapolis, she went to Cincinnati instead. There she was met by Jackson and a fellow student named Walling and after that but little is known of her except what these two fiends incarnate tell on each other, each trying to make it appear that the other is the author of the foul deed of killing the girl and cutting off her head to hide the crime. Walling says that Jackson poisoned the poor girl by hypodermic injection and that before it began to take effect, he proceeded to sever her head from her body and that she fought desperately for her life. He then put the head in the girl's valise and took the body to the Kentucky side, dumping it at the place it was found and returning to Cincinnati where in his room he opened the valise in which was the head and with a fiendish laugh said, "You're a beauty aren't you?"

Jackson persists that Walling killed the girl and there is nothing absolutely certain about the case, but that both ought to be hung without judge, jury or the benefit of clergy, and such a fate awaits them if it shall appear that the murder was committed in Kentucky and they are brought to Newport. So far all efforts to find the head have proved abortive. It was likely thrown into the Ohio river or into a sewer. A young scapegrace named Wood, the son of a Methodist presiding elder and a cousin of the murdered girl, is held as an accomplice and letters from him to Jackson prove him to be a thoroughly heartless little scoundrel. The case is attracting wide spread interest and the local newspapers are reaping a rich harvest from it. A theory is advanced that the girl was accidentally killed in attempting to procure an abortion, in which event it is stated that under the laws of Ohio, the men could only be punished for the lesser crime, the penalty for which does not exceed seven years in the penitentiary. If this be true mob law for once would be justifiable and ought to be administered. The recital of the blood curdling story has already driven one man crazy and the mothers of the poor girl and her brutal betrayer are at the point of death.

The consequences of sin are not always visited so terribly on the sinner and those connected, but the fate of Pearl Bryan should warn still further all who read of her and her fearful end that the wages of sin is death. There was everything to make life pleasant to her. She had a good home, loving parents and pleasant surroundings. But in an evil moment she listened to the tempter and disgrace and death followed. Would that punishment was as swift and as sure for her betrayer and that the law could not be used to shield him from its infliction. Jackson is guilty of three crimes, the betrayal of an innocent girl, the attempt at procuring an abortion and murder, each of which demands his life. He and all concerned in the dreadful crime and butchery deserve death in its most dreadful form and heaven and earth alike cry aloud for vengeance and blood.

We may not be a competent judge in the ring for religious papers, but we are an unbiased one at any rate, and give it as our private opinion, thus publicly expressed, that the Western Recorder, Drs. T. T. Eaton, editor, W. P. Harvey, manager, and the Baptist Convention of Louisville, publisher, is incomparably the best religious publication that we know of. Every Baptist ought to take it and everybody else who wants to read clean and well written church literature. Dr. Harvey, upon whom we occasionally run in our swing around the circle, fits his place exactly and to his wonderful energy, much of the financial success of the paper is due.

The National Farmers' Alliance in session at Washington has eliminated from its platform the famous sub-treasury plan and the demand for an increase of the circulating medium to $50 per capita, and now its members have really nothing to stand on. One by one the shams are crossing, the populists will join them by and bye.

ANOTHER proof that the pardoning power should be taken from the governor and placed in the hands of a board of pardons comes to light from the administration of the late unlamented John Young Brown. It was bad enough for him to pardon Hume Clay just because his wayward son had asked it before his tragic death, but now it is told and on good authority that he pardoned a notorious criminal sent from Mercer county simply because he washed his daughter's poodle dog, which she sent to the penitentiary for that purpose, when she had no more right to send them there than any other individual. The pardoned man is Derwood Jordan, who has been charged with every crime in the catalogue, including arson, and it is remarkable that since his release the home of the man who testified against him has been burned. He was the terror of Mercer county. People were afraid to testify against him and his conviction was only secured by his accomplice turning State's evidence. This is a lovely man to turn out after the difficulty in convicting him and all because he washed a poodle dog. Let the Legislature give us a board of pardons.

His Excellency, Gov. Bradley, was on Sunday's train en route to the Mt. Vernon court, where for years he has been engaged on the one side or other of every important case. He was looking as plain as an old shoe and acting just like he used to. The old white hat and the rusty old overcoat gave him the appearance of hayseed and no one would have suspected that they covered the body of the governor of the grand old Commonwealth. But clothes do not make the man. Worth does and all the rest is leather or prunella. Gov. Bradley has proved that he is a man among men and the very fact that he neither vaunteth himself and is not puffed up over the fruition of his ambition shows that he is "a combination, and a form, indeed, where every god did seem to set his seal, to give the world assurance of a man."

THE treasury gold reserve is out of sight. That is to say it is down to $44,273,912, when the law says it must not be under $100,000,000. But the republicans care nothing for law and the public credit. Cleveland asked them for bread and they gave him a stone; for legislation to stop the flow of gold from the treasury and they gave him a free silver coinage bill.

AFTER a big bluff about having the militia called out, the republicans backed down, as we said they would, and didn't dare to unseat the democrats who stand in the way of Hunter's election. The Senatorial matter is no nearer to a solution now than at first. The republicans lost their only chance to elect when Stege refused to be a party to the foul conspiracy.

WM. H. ENGLISH, whom the democrats nominated for running mate with Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock in 1880, simply because he had plenty of lucre, which it was hoped in vain he would put up, died Friday at his home in Indianapolis. He was a good man, but his nomination for vice president was not on his merits but his money.

LAW MAKING AT FRANKFORT.

—It develops that the State owes the Northern Bank, of Lexington $104,000, on account of the Eastern Asylum.

—The Landes Bill for borrowing $500,000 with which to help out the State's revenues was adversely reported to the Senate.

—Leave of absence was granted Lieut. Gov. Worthington on account of the illness of his wife. In his absence Senator Goebel presides over the joint session.

—Seventeenth joint session ballot: Hunter 56, Blackburn 52, scattering 6; Senator Weissinger voting for Richard T. Tyler.

—The report that Gov. Bradley had been asked by the republican caucus and had consented to establish bayonet rule in the legislature proves to be only a scare rumor.

—The House adopted resolutions of sympathy for the Cuban insurgents, urging the Kentucky delegation in Congress to advocate the recognition of the Cubans as belligerents.

—Mr. Violett's bill making it discretionary with the defendant in a case at law to make his statement at the beginning or the end of the trial was passed by a vote of 88 to one.

—Half a dozen members have introduced bills to reduce the salaries of circuit judges to $2,500. The judiciary committee reported them back to the House without expression and they were ordered to second reading.

—The nominations of Dr. Hugh L. McNary to be superintendent, and Dr. L. E. Goslee to be first assistant physician of the Central insane asylum, were sent to the Senate and confirmed.

—The republicans have discovered that Representative Force travels on a railroad pass. Mr. Force says that they can call it a pass if they want to; that he has a ticket in his pocket which he paid for in services as the attorney of the road, and that said services are specified in a written contract which he has with the road.—Shelbyville News.

—The legislature just as well throw up the job. In the House a resolution was adopted unanimously asking Congress to make the election of a Senator by the people, direct. The Senate had a resolution declaring for adjournment February 17, since there was no money in the treasury, no chance to elect a Senator and business is blocked.

—Commissioner Wm. Herndon went before the committee on charitable institutions in behalf of the Deaf Mute Institute at Danville, and asked for an appropriation of $60,000. He said that the buildings were inadequate to the needs. The children were crowded into the dining room at meal times like 20 pigs in a sty. The ventilation of the sleeping rooms was imperfect, the appointments of the class-rooms were poor and the mechanical department needed enlarging. An electric light plant was needed, and the institution was in want of a bakery. Sixty-three pupils now want admission to the institution, but could not be accommodated.

—The horse season is almost at hand. Horsemen should remember the adage, "the early bird catches the worm" and begin at once to let the people know what they will have in the stud this year. An advertisement in this paper will pay you many fold.

—The present outlook is that the season of 1896 will see more business for stallions that have the necessary qualifications to make race horse sires than the past three seasons put together, and wide-awake breeders are already booking their mares, knowing full well that in 1899 and 1900 the supply of good two and three-year-olds will be far below the demand.—Rural World.

Supt. Davidson has sent out the following to county superintendents: As was shown a few weeks ago by a letter from the State treasurer in response to an inquiry from this office, the school fund of this year was considerably over estimated, leaving a deficit from $120,000 to $200,000 to be made good from the revenues of next year. No part of this can be collected before July 1. The auditor hopes to be able to pay one-half of the balance due teachers early in April, the remainder early in July after the banks pay their taxes for the next fiscal year.

Mrs. Annie James and her mother, Mrs. Nannie Wearen, will occupy the house lately vacated by Mr. A. N. Bentley, as soon as the damages for repairs are completed. Mr. Bentley has moved his family to Livingston.

Mr. James Frye, the enterprising merchant of Hustonville, and his wife, were here Friday. Besides attending to much other business, Mr. Frye had hundreds of bills printed telling how cheaply he sells goods and had the "ad" which appears in another column inserted, and through which he will tell his patrons of reduced prices for many months.

Sunday's Courier-Journal contained good pictures of Prof. and Mrs. J. M. Hubbard and the six handsome teachers of Howard College. Speaking of the College the paper says that Prof. Hubbard is maintaining his high character for thoroughness in the development and discipline of the young minds intrusted to his care. The same paper also contains a fine likeness of Miss Ida May Grant, Lancaster's sweet poetess.

The Richmond Register prints these pleasant paragraphs: Friday's issue of the Stanford Journal contained a fairly good likeness of Hon. John Sam Owens, Jr., whose candidacy for Congress is meeting with marked encouragement all over the district. —Mr. E. C. Walton, the ubiquitous and hustling business manager of that incomparable semi-weekly, the Stanford Interior Journal, was in town Monday working the court day crowd for subscriptions.

Our line of Spring samples has been received and if you want a tailor made suit call at Shanks. The many suits we have made is the only advertisement we will use for future sales. Try Shanks once.

If you want to drive dull care away go on a Wild Goose Chase with us at Walton's Opera House next Saturday night. It is brim full of fun and frolic and makes even the worst dyspeptic laugh and grow fat.

There are just eight people in the Wild Goose Chase, but they are every one an artist and fit his part like the paper on the wall. The Hasty Bros. have no chair warmers. See the side splitting performance, Feb. 15, at Walton's Opera House.

The adjuster for the Phoenix Insurance Co., A. H. Clements, was here Friday to settle the loss on Mr. A. N. Bentley's furniture and offered him a check in full for $629.50, which was accepted. The policy calls for $800 and Agent R. B. Mahony agreed with the adjuster that the offer was a fair one.

A "Wild Goose Chase" comes to us Feb. 15, under a positive guarantee that if it is not as represented on the bills, money for your tickets will be refunded. It is a great show, judging from everything we have heard and read of it, being chuck full of fun and abounding in specialties and music and dancing.

Mercer Court.—Of the three persons sent to the penitentiary from Mercer last week, two are twins, John and Henry Watts, who pleaded guilty of stabbing Wm. Gray and were given one year each. The trial of Jordon for murder is set for tomorrow and unless all signs fail and proof doesn't weigh with a jury, he is sure to be hung.

Leg cut off.—Brakeman Stark, whose home is at Lebanon Junction, fell from a freight train near Pittsburg Friday night and one of his legs was run over and so badly mangled that it was necessary to amputate it just below the knee. He was not missed by the other trainmen until Hazel Patch was reached, but fortunately a tramp ran across him and carried him to Pittsburg. Dr. Cooper was sent on a special train from Livingston and operated on him as above.

If the railroad company makes the much desired change in their trains, it will be of as much benefit to Stanford as to Lancaster. Put your shoulder to the wheel, Col. W. P.—Lancaster Record.

The I. J. would advocate an improvement in the train service on the K. C. even if Lancaster alone was benefited. We certainly hope something will be done for at present the schedule is as mean as it can be for those along the branch. The schedule suggested by the Record is a good one and we hope will be adopted. We know it will if Supt. Hood will let John Farra talk to him awhile on the subject.

The new city council elected O. J. Newland, chief of police, by a unanimous vote, a high compliment to as good an officer as ever swung a club. Judge W. E. Varnon was elected attorney by a vote of three to W. H. Miller two. Mr. Warren tells us he did not seek the office and was not a candidate. Mr. A. A. McKinney was unanimously re-elected treasurer. Mr. W. M. Bright's name was not presented at the proper time. George B. Wearen had no opposition for clerk and he will fill the office another term. An order was made that unless a license of $20 each was paid for the scales in the street on Main and near the depot, they must be removed. Such an order was entered several years ago, but it was never carried out.

Carson.—Some men are born great, others achieve greatness and still others have greatness thrust upon them. We can hardly tell under which head the Hon. Samuel M. Carson, of the Kentucky Legislature, comes, but certain it is that he is a great man. None but the truly great could so bravely defy all rules of orthography, etymology, syntax and prosody and show such utter and absolute disdain for the teachings of Lindley Murray, Webster and others as Mr. Carson has done. His motion to "seet Werner on count of gross fraude," has made him famous and newspapers from one end of the country to the other are publishing it to show of what manner of men the republican contingent of the Kentucky Legislature is composed.

Pearl corset shields at Shanks. They need no recommendation.

We are sole agents for Fuller's celebrated cow and calf remedies. Craig & Hooker.

A new, handsome and extensive line of Hamburgs and insertions at Shanks'.

Carload of farm wagons just received at Farris & Hardin's. Also a lot of road wagons. Call and see them.

Wanted.—Everybody who comes to town Monday, county court day, to call in and see our new stock of groceries, queensware, tin and wooden ware, plow gear, &c. Warren & Shanks.

Though not so good looking as the late handsome pastor of the Christian church here, the lithographs of Prof. Byron W. King, of King's School of Elocution, Pittsburgh, Pa., who is to be at Walton's Opera House, Feb. 19, bear a striking resemblance to Rev. W. E. Ellis and many take them for him.

The rain storm of Saturday turned to snow early in the day and by night the whole earth was wrapped in a winding sheet. It continued to snow all night and at intervals Sunday and but for the wet ground upon which it fell it would have been a foot deep. As it was, there were several inches, making it the heaviest of the season. Yesterday a warm sun dispelled it very fast and the court crowd waded in slush up to their knees. The forecast for Tuesday is fair and colder.

The property of Col. W. G. Welch was sold at auction yesterday by Assignee R. C. Warren as follows: The old Hayden farm of 190 acres to J. W. Hayden at $36; brick office in Stanford $1,572; 50 shares in the Cumberland Valley Land Co., $90 to $91; 180 shares in Bell County Coke & Imp. Co., $1.25 to $5; Life policy for $6,000 in the Ethna $1,210, four shares in Estado Cattle Co., of Texas, at $2.50; 10 in Montague Roller & Gin Co., of Toledo, O., at $1.95, five shares in Stanford Water, Light & Ice Co., at $49, and other trifling items all to the First National Bank. The homestead and remaining ownership of brick residence sold to Mrs. W. G. Welch for $1,010, but the bank objected to the sale as stated by the assignee.

One killed, the other crippled.—W. H. Graddy, one of the wealthiest farmers of Woodford, was instantly killed and John Owsley Evans, of Danville, who was driving with him in a buggy, had his leg broken and was otherwise badly hurt by a Louisville Southern train Thursday near Versailles. The buggy top was up and the occupants probably did not see the train till it was too late. Then Mr. Graddy struck the horse with a whip. He plunged forward and, just as the buggy landed on the track, the engine crashed into it and hurled it some distance. Both men were thrown into the air. Mr. Graddy fell headforemost against some hard object on the ground and was instantly killed by the concussion. His scalp was badly torn. Mr. Evans' right leg was broken near the thigh and he was painfully cut and bruised, but not dangerously. He was taken to Versailles, where every attention was shown him. He was going home with Mr. Graddy to look at his cattle with a view of buying them. Mr. Graddy was 72 and said to be worth $200,000.

Later news from Mr. Evans is not so favorable, but Dr. Dunlap, who took Mrs. Evans thither, says he has hopes that he will pull through.

In order to help our dear girls in their efforts to mate, We publish this list of bachelors That each may find her fate.

For there will be no more Leap Years 'Till nineteen hundred and four, And all who miss this chance May never have more.

First, there's William A. Tribble, He's tall and he's spare; They say he has got money And a monstrous fine mare.

Then there's handsome Harve Helm, So long and so slim, And if you're anxious to marry, What's the matter with him?

And here's Peter McRoberts, So scrupulously neat, He'll make you a good husband, So kneel at his feet.

If you want a medicine man, John Wells fills the bill, He can cure you when sick With his wonderful pills.

But girls, if you want a man who'll put up The silks and the lace, Take our advice and at clever Will Shanks make your face.

Then here comes Al Price, He's little but loud, And will make one of the best mates Of the beautiful crowd.

Carroll Shanks may be spoken for, But never mind that, Faint heart ne'er wins anything, So put it to him pat.

Carroll Bailey, the horseman, He too wants to marry, As well as that Baughman boy, The tall, handsome Harry.

And there's Clarence E. Tate, The pretty calico man, He's a very good catch, So catch him who can.

That knight of the yard stick, Al Severance, is next, Because Joe's gone to Memphis, Where he now takes his text.

But the list grows too long now, So here it must close, Till our issue next Friday, When the rest of them goes.

Wanted.—More boarders at Mrs. Kate Dudderar's. Nicely located and first class board.

Twenty-two new subscribers in the last two days isn't bad, but we are used to that kind of thing.

A large posse is searching for Camden and Rowsey, charged with barn burning in Boyle and they will be taken dead or alive.

We are getting mighty tired waiting on you for the money you owe us. A prompt settlement might save you a good deal, so don't put it off. M. S. & J. W. Baughman.

The will of Col. J. M. Bezey was probated yesterday. It gives all his property to his wife, Mrs. Sallie A. Bezey, appoints her executor without security and she qualified yesterday.

After a continuous service of more than 12 years, Mr. John B. Dickinson resigned yesterday as toll-gate keeper on the Danville pike and the board elected Will T. Saunders, who will move thither at once.

It turns out that Hon. W. H. Miller was "the scamp" who took Joe Goode's horse without authority and drove it. He sent his boy to get Joe McAlister's and he got Goode's instead. Mr. Goode was pretty hot until he found out the state of case, but the matter was amicably adjusted, Mr. Miller says, after he had threatened to turn Mr. Goode over to Lucien Johnson.

Birdie Sutherland, a ballet girl, has sued a baron's son in London for $100,000 damages for alleged breach of promise.

Col. Craddock says he went to the museum at Cincinnati and proposed marriage to the Missouri giant who is 3 feet 6 inches tall, but she declined and the old man's left again.

Mr. M. H. Singleton and Miss Bettie, the pretty daughter of Mr. Moses Coffey, were married at Squire W. L. Dawson's by that gentleman Saturday afternoon. Both of them live near Turnersville.

After the marriage of Masterson Peyton, Esq., of Knoxville, to Miss Sara Hinkle, of Louisville, this evening, the father of the bride, Col. J. P. Hinkle, will give a dinner at the Louisville Hotel, for invitation to which our thanks are due.

Sam M. Boone, Jr., of the Somerset Reporter, and Miss Maggie Ingram eloped to Chattanooga from Pulaski's capital and were married. The groom is a worthy chip of the old block for whom he is named and the bride is said to be a lovely young woman.

At the age of 13, Miss Mary Hardin, a precocious maiden of Brownsville, this State, became a bride. Her husband lived about a year and was called to his fathers. The youthful widow soon dried her tears and last week became a bride for the second time and before she is 15.

W. S. Griffith, of Jeffersonville, Ind., engaged to marry Miss Etta Chambers at College Hill, Madison county, but he came not even after the wedding feast had been prepared and the indignant citizens say now that if he ever comes a coat of tar and feathers and a ride on a rail await him.

The Courier Journal says that Charles E. Hudson and Miss Bettie R. Martin, elopers from Paint Lick, were married in Jeffersonville. They were accompanied by Miss Hattie G. Mitchell, who had been visiting Miss Martin. Mr. Hudson called at Miss Martin's Wednesday and proposed to the young woman to flee with him to the Hoosier Gretta Green. At 11 o'clock she aroused Miss Mitchell, who had retired, and asked if she would accompany her. Miss Mitchell assented and the trio slipped out. Mr. Hudson had a buggy in waiting and the party was quickly on its way to Junction City, 25 miles away. The rain was pouring, but a stormy night presented no terrors to the runaways. Miss Martin is a handsome girl, and the daughter of a widow. Her mother was strongly opposed to her marriage. Mr. Hudson is employed by a sewing machine company.
